

Professional English Writing Development Course for the Independent Commission Against Corruption (ICAC) (April-August 2008)

The course aimed to provide advanced training to the officers in writing proposals, reports and papers on strategic issues for readers at the senior executive level. The training methodology involved six one-to-one tutorials and two group workshops, in which topics such as key principles for effective writing, genre analytical approach and corpus-based method of studying the language and structure are covered.

The course was taught by Professor Martin Warren.